Class Poem

Seniors: Our high school days are ended
At last we've reached our goal;
Joys and hardships together blended
Form the memories which we hold.

The test of time cannot be dodged
Nor trouble can we escape;
For in our minds they will be lodged
Meeting them face to face.

Using our knowledge we learned in school,
Blending in traits we formed at home,
No longer must we obey a rule,
Guiding ourselves where e'er we roam.

Life will not be a bed of ease
We expect no sorrow or pain;
But happiness and grief, added to these
Our lives will be lived not in vain.

But you must keep your goal forever
Never let it slip from your view;
Never let your courage sever,
And success will come to you.

In Honesty, Purity, Faithfulness, Care
A ladder by which we climb
Is an emblem of toil which others compare
To the group that is e'er sublime.

Flower: Red rose

Colors: Wine and Silver

Motto: We build the ladder by which we climb.

Class Song

Time is now a-coming when we have to say
adieu,
Hail to high school days!
Happy has our journey been and most eventful, too.

But time must part our ways.
We've worked and played together
With this victory in view,
We've learned the rules of sportsmanship
And learned our lessons too.
We are not divided; we have all decided
What's best for us to do.

Chorus

We'll fly away;
Here and there and everywhere,
We'll work with all our might
Day by day,
We'll wear a smile and all the while
We'll make the way more bright.
Now we're on our way.

Graduation time is here and high school days are o'er,
We have seen it through.
We've done our best and stood the test
And strived to make our score
Been loyal, brave, and true.
First we came and then we saw
And now we've conquered too;
All we've done in work and fun
With teachers ever true.
English, Math, and History, to us have lost their mystery,
So now good-bye to you.

(Tune: "Kentucky Babe")

Class History

On a beautiful balmy morning
In the autumn of '35,
A timid band of youngsters
Entered a school in which to strive.

Fears, inferiority complex
Seized the hearts of entrants there;
We began a routine of study
Disobey? We did not dare!

We were scared stiff of the teachers,
Especially our principal, Mr. Bittle;
'Twas a test to get acquainted
With even ourselves -- so little.

This term was happily climaxed
With a picnic on Hazen's Run;
What else could we but ask for,
Digesting food and fun?

As Sophs in number and knowledge
The class continued to gain,
Toward the aim we set before us
And the reward we wished to obtain.

Miss Hottle became our room sponsor
Of the Sophs of B. D. H. S.
We were glad to have her with us,
Offering help at her very best.

Satisfied with the progress we were making,
Unknown to the trials due,
To our faithful band of students
We would overcome all, we knew.

In the spring of that year as the custom
Of ourselves we would not deprive
A well planned trip to some interest;
So we traveled to Skyline Drive.

A new chapter was to be written
In the book of will and new learning;
A desire for new adventure,
Our hearts were patiently yearning.

We published "The Flash" our school paper
With vim, vigor, and force;
But still we were growing restless,
Something else to be done, of course.

On the night of March 31
The lights and setting complete;
A tremendous success, "Bashful Bobby"
Enacted for onlooker's treat.

We had to remember the Seniors,
Whose school days were ending that year;
So we hired a bus -- "On to Richmond"
Observed interests there without fear.

As Seniors, school days ending so briefly
But the tasks before us to do
Were those that determine the making,
Of ourselves for opportunities new.

We are but sixteen in number;
But where there's a will, there's a way
For the group that perseveres strongly
To the heights of preparedness some day.

With a staff of competent workers,
And a spirit of getting things done;
Our Annual "The Flash" was published,
Ending things which once were begun.

The Seniors turned actresses and actors,
To personalities, changing their names;
Eleven donned costume and makeup
And presented a hit, "Plain Jane".

Our ladder was nearing completion
Built of learning, perseverance and care;
We were nearing the close of a beginning
To the noblest, for others to compare.

The Reverend Guy West of Roanoke
Delivered our Baccalaureate Address;
With such force and inspiration,
We felt very highly assessed.

Graduation night was before us;
A speaker of knowledge and fame
Delivered a self-inspiring address
For us to challenge a name.

We've arisen to the top of our ladder
Built with pride, confidence and skill;
But to those who wish to build further,
The world is yours if you've the will.

Class Prophecy

On the afternoon of May 25, 1939, the Seniors are gathered at the home of Ruth and Margaret House for tea. During the midst of the fun, Miss Berryman, who is always eager to advise, decides that she will read the tea leaves to see who has the most brilliant future.

First, she gazes into the cup of Josephine. The tea leaves are in the shape of a large building. Ah, it is a hospital. Inside there is a chubby woman who has on a white uniform. It is our class pet, Josephine. She has worked her way to be the head nurse of a large hospital in Philadelphia.

As she looks into Ruth's cup, Dorothy sees another large building. Well, bless my soul, it is Nokesville High School. Moving slowly down the corridor go three familiar figures. Look! They are Ruth, Dallie, and Kathleen. Kathleen has become principal of the school as well as being a very efficient Home Economics teacher. Quite natural, Ruth is head of all Mathematics classes. Remember when she was the only one in class who could see through Algebra and Geometry? We see Dallie retreating to a room which is a part of a new addition to the school building. It is the third and fourth grade room. The new principal is responsible for the addition. But look, here comes a small boy from Miss Fritter's room, in tears. Upon asking, we find that he just sassed the teacher and she smacked him. Poor boy!

Billy's cup is next. There is another large building. It is an airplane hangar. Inside the adjoining office we see Mr. J. W. Harpine, Jr., President of American Airways. In addition to this, he owns his own private plane and has just returned from a non-stop flight to Australia. We hear an airplane buzz from outside. A small plane lands and two people emerge from it. One of them is Marion Miller. He is chief aeronautical instructor for Billy. He has also just made a record world flight in 26 hours, 19 minutes, and 21 seconds. We hear hammering from the adjoining room. After inquiring, we find it is Flory Diehl who is chief designer for American Airways. He has just completed a plane that will go 900 miles per hour.

Margaret's leaves are next. There is another large building. Large buildings seem to be important in our class. Upon close inspection, we find it to be the People's Bank of Manassas. Inside we find Miss Margaret House who is head secretary of the bank. She is the same Margaret we knew in school -- gentle and kind, and inclined to worry a bit.

Now Dorothy goes to Genevieve's cup. The scene is a Parisian Street. We see two familiar people. They are Genevieve and Sadie. They have been so successful in their secretarial courses at Saks in New York that they are taking their vacation abroad this year. When school closed in '39, they took a business course together; then in '41 went job hunting together; and they actually found one. Sadie is planning to get married in the Spring. She is a smart girl to have a vacation, and then a honeymoon.

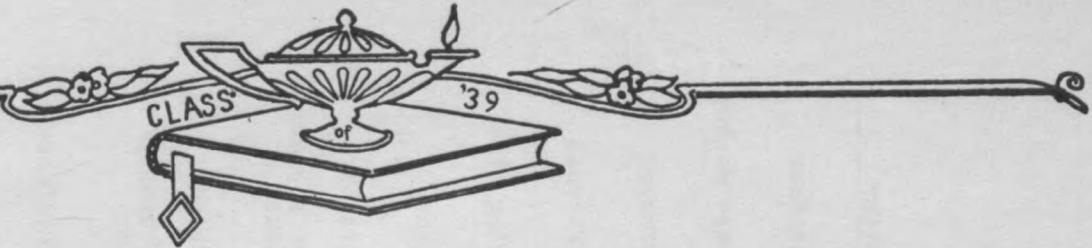

Next, Dorothy goes to Betty's cup. There is Betty in an elaborate skyscraper in New York City. She is on the 132nd floor. It is the office of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Betty is his personal secretary and adviser. When he is in a tight place, Betty always gives him sound advice.

As Dorothy looks into Lawrence's cup, she sees land --- much land. Jake has become one of the foremost farmers in Virginia; he owns 1000 acres of land, 500 acres of forests, a ten room house; and, last but not least, a wife.

Next is Lucile's cup. A small building appears. It is a small dress shop on Fifth Avenue. On the outside is written: Berryman, Foster, & Foster. Of course it belongs to Dorothy, June, and Lucile. Lucile is the model; Dorothy is the designer; and June is the seamstress. Business is very good, thanks.

Now all the leaves have been read and Dorothy thinks that one person's future is as brilliant as another.

Class Will

We, the Seniors of 1939, known as the most dignified seniors in captivity, wish to state our last will and testament.

As members of this class, we will to Brentsville District High School our good standing with the citizens of America.

To Mr. Bittle, we leave our sincere thanks for his kindness to us throughout our days at B. D. H. S.

To Miss Broaddus, we leave our sincere hopes that the next English IV class will know more about Literature than we.

To Miss Ritchie, we leave our hope that she gets a good husband.

To Mr. Beamer, we leave our hopes that he doesn't capture a school teacher.

To Miss Reynolds, we leave our hopes that the Virgil Class next year will know more than this year's Cicero Class.

To the Junior Class, we leave our sincere hopes that they will take advantage of the many wholesome opportunities that come their way as we have done.

To the Sophomores, we will our ability to study hard and to learn quickly.

To the Freshmen, we will our good behavior and our dignity.

Sadie Smith wills her ability to translate Cicero with ease to John Walter Bittle.

June Foster wills her jolly giggle and nick name "Mrs. Tubbs" to Evelyn Kerns.
Be sure to laugh at the right time, Evelyn.

Ruth House wills her mathematical ability to Jack Sullivan. Mr. Bittle may need help sometime, Jack.

Lucile Foster wills her comb, as much as she hates to part with it, to her best pal, Marie Herndon. Don't break all the teeth out of it, Marie.

Margaret House wills her seriousness of mind to Wilma Lee Wood.

Dallie Fritter wills her Cicero Book to Frances Hale. Frances, keep on and you will soon be as smart as Dallie was --- maybe.

Dorothy Berryman wills her ability to "boss" to Helen Taylor. Keep on the best side of the teachers, Helen --- as Dot did --- and you'll get along O. K.

Genevieve Garman wills her positions as treasurer and typist to Betty McMichael. She hopes that Betty will have to unlock the money box as many times as she did. Betty, be sure you get that letter off for Mr. Bittle.

Lawrence Coverstone wills his bashfulness to Ernest Spitler, Jr. He says from class observance that Jr. needs it badly.

Marion Miller wills his quick temper to Allen Green. Don't forget to count to ten first Allen, before you start fussing, as Marion says it sometimes helps. He also wills his ability to be leader to Owen Hurst.

Billy Harpine wills his title "The Ladies Man" to Gerald Herring and his towering height to Harry Smith.

Josephine Mayhugh wills her friendliness to Jean Leach and her "love" for Geometry to Aline Rice.

Flory Diehl wills his ability to get "H" in Geometry to Helen May. An "H" is something to be proud of, Helen.

Kathleen Garman wills her friendly disposition to Earl Bell and her musical talent to Frances Ellis.

I, Betty Payne will to my dearest buddy -- Mary White -- my treasured Geometry book. Best o' luck, Mary.

As soon as the members of the Junior Class adjusted themselves to the school routine, they met and elected officers. They selected as follows:

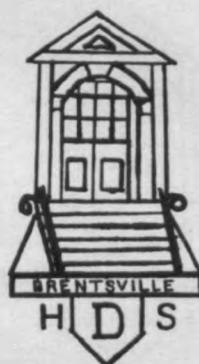

President	Ernest Spitler, Jr.
Vice-President	John Walter Bittle
Secretary	Marie Herndon
Treasurer	Vada Lee Stultz
Program Committee	Jean Leach; Gerald Herring
Reporters	Frances Ellis; Betty McMichael

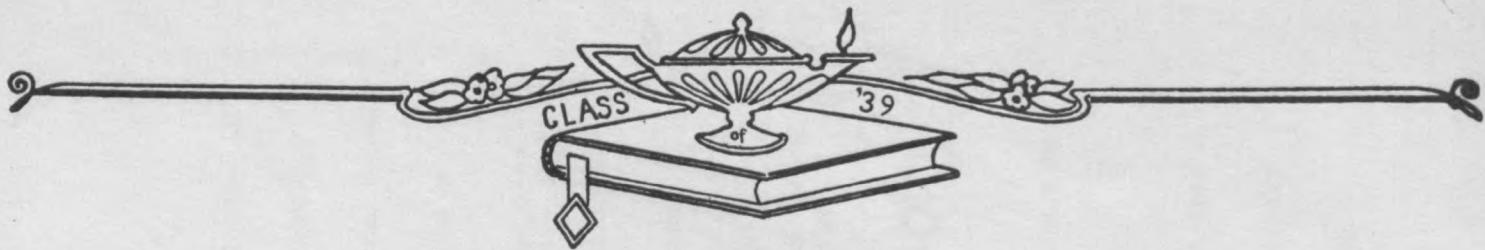

We selected wine and white as our class colors and "Not to the top, but climbing" as our motto.

During this term we had to edit the school paper, "The Flash". We elected the following staff:

Editor-in-Chief	Ernest Spitler, Jr.
Assistant Editor	Freddie Harpine
Business Manager	Warren Landes
Advertising Manager	Elwood Long
Cartoonists	Jean Leach; Pearl Hope Shepherd
Boy's Sports Editor	John Walter Bittle
Girl's Sports Editor	Christine Farneyhough
Feature Editor	Harold Hopkins
Typists	Virginia Hyde; Helen Taylor

In March we began working on our class play, "Here Comes Hattie". This was presented during the first of April.

Since last year the Sophomore Class has suffered a great loss in the number of pupils. At the beginning of last year there were thirty four students in the freshman class; now, there are only seventeen sophomores. Our home room is in the agricultural building and Mr. Rufus Beamer, a new instructor, is our sponsor.

We met and organized our class as follows:

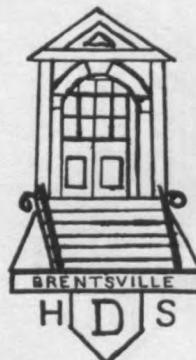

First Semester

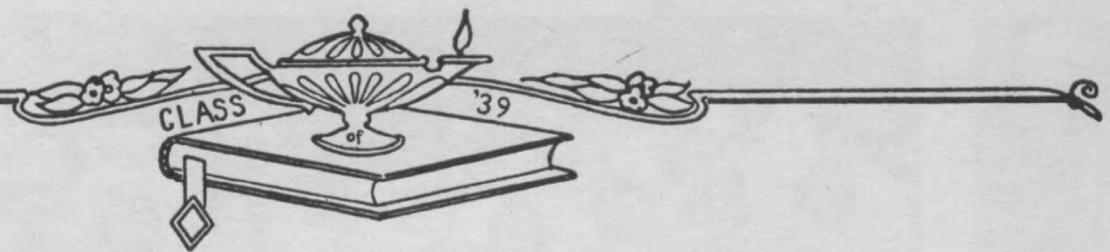

President Harry Smith
Vice President Owen Hurst
Secretary-Treasurer .. Frances Hale
Reporter Elsie Gough

Second Semester

President Gordon Ellis
Vice President Elsie Gough
Secretary-Treasurer .. Lucy House
Reporter Eugene Nolley

We selected the white rose for our class flower and green and white for our class colors. Our class motto is "Work conquers everything". We agreed to meet the first Wednesday of each month for our class programs. During the year we gave several assembly programs and had several very interesting class programs. At Thanksgiving and Christmas we took an active part in filling charity boxes prepared by the school. We are proud of the fact that all of our members have paid their S. C. A. dues for the year.

Freshman Class Reflections

These are the impressions that the members of our class have carried with them to the end of the year:

New teachers -- Basketball -- Games -- Games from the shelf -- Rubber bands -- Flying erasers -- Noise -- Essay on "Behavior" -- Showing off -- Glee Club -- Latin Examination -- The Black List -- Water Pistols -- Ping Pong -- Staying in at Recess -- Everybody talking -- Lectures on manners

We haven't made much history.

First Semester Officers

President	Fleta Garman
Secretary	Catherine Bittle
Reporter	Mary Elson Owens

Second Semester Officers

President	Archie Conner
Secretary	Martha Rollins
Reporter	Jean Fitzwater

Home Economics

The Taste and Baste Club met and elected the following officers:

President	Vada Lee Stultz
Vice President	Fleta Garman
Secretary	Betty McMichael
Treasurer	Mary Jane Fearneyhough
Program Committee	Pearl Hope Shepherd
Refreshment Committee ...	Wilma Lee Wood
Decoration Committee	Jean Leach
Song Leader	Fleta Garman
Critic Reporters	Audrey Herndon; Dorothy Hopkins
Reporter	Helen May

We selected as our motto "Keep the home fires burning". We chose as our colors green and yellow.

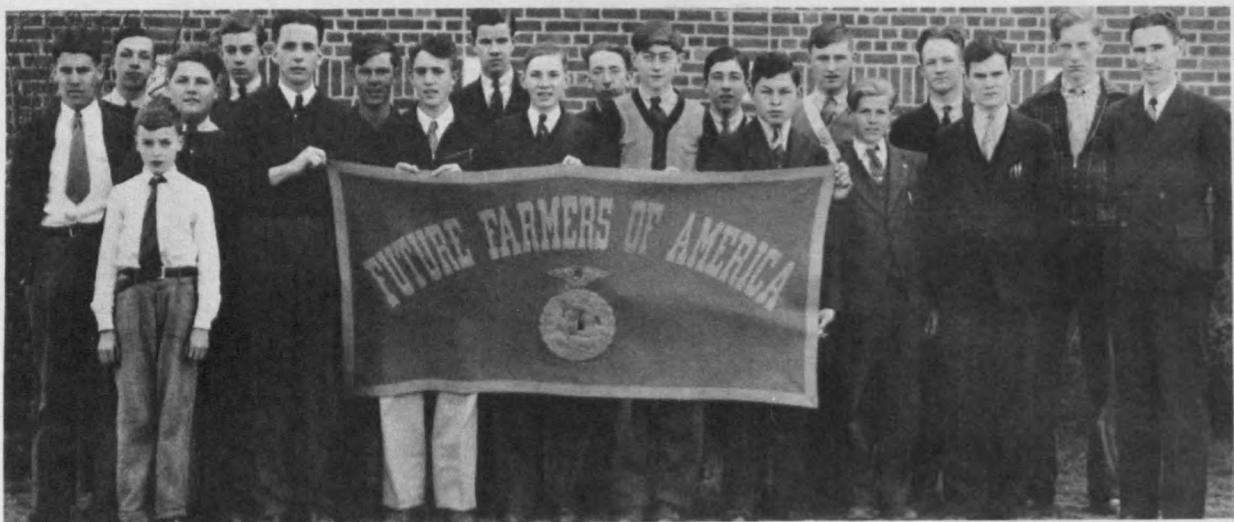

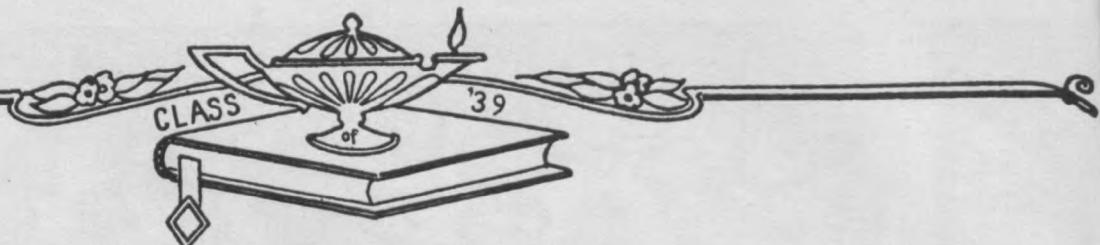

On November 10th, the Home Economics girls and the F. F. A. boys sponsored a play entitled "Worryin' Willie".

The Home Economics girls and F. F. A. boys gave an oyster supper on February 10th.

On March 29th, the Home Economics girls served the F. F. A. Banquet.

Other activities during the term were serving the faculty and the Woman's Club.

Future Farmers of America

At the beginning of the year, committees were appointed to set up objectives and standards for the year.

The chapter went on an observation tour to the Live Stock Show held at the Baltimore stocks yards.

George Herring, Raymond Forester, Archie Conner, Edwin Nelson, Freddie Harpine and Cecil Baker were promoted to Green Hands. Miller Whetzel, Earl McWhorter, Leo Earhart, William Crawford and Emlyn Herring were promoted to Future Farmers.

The Nokesville Chapter won first prize in the "Arcadian Nitrate of Soda" Contest. Minter Squires won the individual prize.

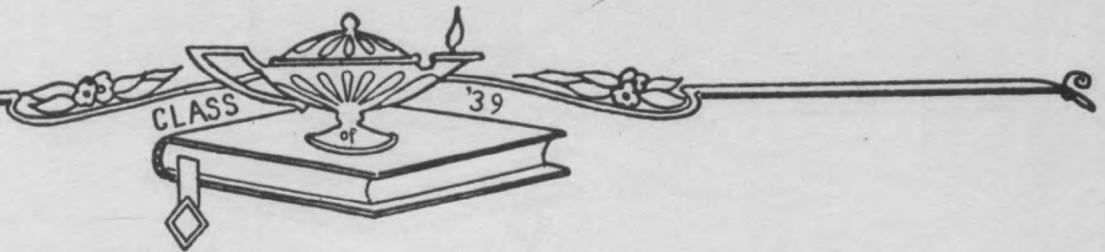

The F. F. A. Banquet was held on March 29, 1939. As our guests we had our Mothers, Fathers, Junior Farmers, and special invited guests.

We have been landscaping the school grounds by sowing grass and planting shrubs. We are planning to enter the Federation Degree Team.

The Nokesville F. F. A. basketball team composed of Elwood Long, Gerald Herring, Harry Fitzwater, Billy Harpine, Edwin Nelson, Albert Rollins, and Harry Mayhugh won the Blue Ridge Federation Basketball Championship.

The following boys are taking Agriculture: Cecil Baker, Archie Conner, William Crawford, Leo Earhart, Raymond Forester, Emlyn Herring, George Herring, Jr., Earl McWhorter, Edwin Nelson, Miller Whetzel, Freddie Harpine, Harry Fitzwater, Gerald Herring, Elwood Long, Harold Hopkins, Harry Mayhugh, Albert Rollins, Ivan Ross, Billy Harpine, and Minter Squires.
